

What we have heard about other mobile notary services...

Just because someone is a Notary Public does not mean they know their way around loan documents, promissory notes, preliminary title reports, seller's papers, the new Closing Disclosure CD or estimated closing cost statements. That can often cause problems at the sign up appointment.

We have heard many times that a mobile notary was not able to complete a signing with some of our competitors because he/she was unable to adequately answer a question about a charge or charges on an estimated closing cost statement or HUD-1. This is why we utilize only people that are very experienced in the signing of loan documents or have been certified as qualified to do loan document sign ups through special approved training courses.

We strive to work with only the best, so if you know of a former escrow officer or escrow assistant that is still a notary, we'd like to talk with them about joining our team.

Your real estate transactions, loans and all your notary needs are very important to us!

Why are we in this business?

When we first opened our company the predominate question we got was, "Why enter a business already flooded with so much competition?" That question shaped the company we became.

Our objective was and remains simple: to provide the best possible signing services to the end user and the people that order our services. We set out to create the best possible signing service without asking for luxury pricing. We are not interested in being the largest, the most profitable or the best known signing service out there. We only want to be the best we can be while providing the best possible signing services to our clients.

To accomplish our objective required a different vetting process for signing agents, the ability to attract the best agents in the industry and to retain the services of as many former escrow officers as we could find that were willing to stay in the business as signing agents.

This company did not begin as a notary looking to become a signing service. The founder is a business man and came to this business from a practical and fundamental business approach with 25 years in the mortgage banking industry and with a partner that spent nearly 20 years as an escrow officer in the highest income county in the country and her dealing with high-end transactions day in and day out.

If ratings are any indication of a company fulfilling their mission statement and objective, we have succeeded. For the past several years we have been one of the highest rated signing service in the USA. We have accomplished this while maintaining competitive pricing with superior quality of service. Are you ready to work with us or utilize our services? Call or email us anytime.
